Dear Colonel Baird:

The first of two Associate Military Intelligence Officer Advanced Courses to be conducted by the United States Army Intelligence School during the current fiscal year commenced at Fort Holabird this morning. The program of training for this course calls for early presentation of the topic, "National Intelligence Organization and Functions." This instruction, as you know, has been capably presented to previous classes by [redacted]

It would be most beneficial if [redacted] could be made available to address the members of the current class on this subject on 11 August 1959 from 1010 to 1145 hours. As is our custom, a portion of the lecture session would be reserved for a question and answer period. All of the students have been cleared for access to SECRET information.

I hope that this request will receive your favorable consideration and that I shall have the pleasure again of welcoming [redacted] to Fort Holabird. A cordial invitation is extended to [redacted] to remain for lunch, following the presentation, with several members of the staff and faculty.
